The sentences or words in red and in brackets are stage directions and how the people talk.

(A car pulls over at the Adhikaris' and Perry-Carters' shared maisonette, it is Mrs Carole Henry and her seven-year-old daughter Tricia)

Narrator: The four children - Indian-Nigerian-British 6-year-old Arigbeniri and 8-year-old Arimyrria Adhikari and Caucasian-Australian 8-year-old Flora and 9-year-old Taylor were watching a Nick Jr. Too (formerly Nick Jr 2 until 30th September 2014, rebranded after Nick Jr. Peppa from 1st October to 2nd November 2014) broadcast on Sky Channel 620 when they had visitors. They were to guess who had come in their car.

Mr Carter: Guess who has come.

Taylor: It is my former student teacher Mr Norman because he is very warm-hearted.

Flora: No Flora, it is my former teacher Mrs Gotz, she has a strong Polish accent, and she helped me a lot in Year 3. Not to mention, the other children in my class.

Arimyrria: You are both wrong Taylor and Flora, it is Mrs Spears, I like her long, blonde hair in a bun and the orange long-sleeved dress and tights she wore today.

Arigbeniri: Nope, it is Mrs Chester, my teaching assistant with just one arm.

Narrator: The children were incorrect, Mrs Carole Henry and her seven-year-old naughty daughter Tricia had come to take all five children to Tesco in Elmer's End to buy the things they needed for Flora's 9th birthday the following day and their house in Upper Norwood to collect the cake Carole made for Flora's party at the church.

(Rochelle looks out of the window)

Rochelle: Just to let you know, you are all wrong, they were all good guesses though. The people who have come is Carole and her daughter Tricia in my husband's class.

(Carole and Tricia get out of their car and walk up the stairs to the front door, Tricia knocks the door)

Mum: I wonder who is at the door. (She leaves the book she is reading, goes to the front door, and opens it with a key)

Mum: Good evening, who are you?

Carole: Carole Henry and this is my daughter Tricia.

Mum: Carole and Tricia, good evening.

Tricia: Good evening, Mrs Adhikari. We are fine thank you.

(Dad goes into the sitting room)

Narrator: Dad went into the sitting room to tell the children that they had visitors.

Dad: Children, you have a couple of Caucasian visitors.

(The children walk up to Carole and Tricia)

Arimyriah (kneels): Good evening, Tricia, and Carole.

Tricia: Good evening, Ari. How are you today?

Arimyriah: I am fine, I like your purple hair. Did Mummy dye it for you?

Carole: I dyed my daughters hairs purple for tomorrow's Freaky hair Friday that took two hours to do, and I must dye them blonde again after tomorrow.

Narrator: A minute after Carole and Tricia came into the house, Mr Carter asked why they had come to the maisonette.

Mr Carter: For what have you come to the maisonette?

Carole: I wanted to take the children to Tesco Superstore in Elmer's End to buy things to Flora's birthday party at school and at church tomorrow. And then we will go to my house to collect Flora's cake for her birthday party at church.

Narrator: When Carole told Mr Carter why she and Tricia had come to the maisonette, she asked all four children to go to their bedroom and put on their coats and shoes and go to the front door. Taylor wore a navy-blue coat and blue trainers, Flora wore a mustard winter coat and blue loafers, Arimyriah wore a purple coat with hood and pink trainers and Arigbeniri wore a black leather jacket and tan brown trainers.

(When the children have put on their coats, they go to the front door and follow each other to the Henry-Jacksons' car – a silver Ford Galaxy 2014 with seven grey seats)

Narrator: Outside, where it was chilly and dark and the leaves had just fallen from the oak trees and the evergreen trees were dressed in green, Carole told the children where to sit. Tricia sat on the passenger's seat, she told Arigbeniri to stay at the back on the left, she told Taylor to sit on the left of the middle row, she told Flora to sit in the middle and she told Arimyriah to sit on the right on the middle row.

(The children sit where they are told, and Carole sits on the driver's seat next to Tricia)

Carole: Are you ready to go to Tesco?

All five children (faintly): (Yes.)

Carole: That was appalling. I said are you ready to go to Tesco?!

All five children (louder): Yes!

Carole: That was still appalling. ARE YOU READY TO GO TO TESCO?!

All five children (loudest): YES!

Carole: Then let the journey begin.

(She starts the engine with her keys and takes the plane-style parking brake off with her hand, she also sets her Garmin sat-nav to Tesco Superstore, Elmer's End)

Narrator: During the journey from the house to Tesco, the children were well behaved in the car, Carole put some Classical music on for them to listen to, so they do not get bored.

(When the sextet arrives at Tesco Superstore at Elmer's End – referred as just 'Tesco,' Carole puts the brake on, and she and Tricia come out of the car and let the Adhikari and Perry-Carter children come out and they proceed inside the supermarket)

Narrator: At Tesco, Carole told the two girls and two boys what to look for, for Flora's birthday celebrations. A birthday cake for all of Rose Class to share, birthday cards and envelopes to sign, party hats for the children to wear on their heads, snacks for the children at Rose Class to share with the birthday cake, a number 9 candle to light on the birthday cake, party plates for the children to put their snacks, a birthday badge for Flora to put on her school cardigan, some juice for the children to drink and some cups for the children to have their drinks. She also told them to get party bags and things to put in them.

Taylor: I found a perfect mermaid cake that has blue and pink icing. Flora will like this cake, albeit being a tomboy most of the time, she likes mermaids, and I love underwater, especially the dolphins, whales, and sharks.

Arimyriah: I have found some perfect birthday cards and envelopes; I have also found some colourful party hats and a number 9 candle. Not to mention, plastic plates and cups for food and drink. As well as a colourful badge saying, 'It's my birthday.'

Tricia: I have found apple and orange juice. Some Quavers, some party sandwiches, some sausage rolls, some cupcakes, some scotch eggs, and some cocktail sausages.

Arigbeniri: I have found some party bags, some Haribos, some popcorn and some coloured pencils for the seven boys and hairbands for the two girls.

Narrator: When Taylor, Arimyriah, Tricia and Arigbeniri had finished choosing the things for Rose Class's party for Flora's 9th birthday, they put them in the trolley Carole was pushing and Carole paid for them.

(The children go to the checkout and Carole pays for the bought things)

Carole: Let us now go to my house, and because you have behaved well, I have some pizza my husband ordered from Pizza Hut an hour ago.

(The sextet goes back to the car in the same seats as before and Carole drives to her house in Upper Norwood via Anerley and Crystal Palace)

Narrator: After birthday shopping, the sextet headed to the Henry-Jacksons' house in Upper Norwood to collect the birthday cake Carole made and for the children to tuck in to pizza from Pizza Hut.

(When they arrive, everyone goes out of the car and Northern Irish man Joseph Jackson – Carole's new husband, Tricia and Florence's stepfather and Freddy and Violet's father unlocks the door, and the sextet come into the house)

Joseph: Good evening, Tricia.

Tricia: Good evening stepdaddy.

Joseph: Good evening, everyone.

Taylor, Flora, Arimyrriah and Arigbeniri: Good evening, Joseph.

(The seven people go into the sitting room and see Florence – Tricia's younger sister, Freddy and Violet's older stepsister, Carole's younger daughter and Joseph's younger stepdaughter who is watching a Disney Junior broadcast on Virgin Media Channel 727, Freddy – Tricia and Florence's younger stepbrother, Violet's older brother, Carole's stepson and Joseph's son and Violet – Tricia and Florence's younger stepsister, Freddy's younger sister, Carole's stepdaughter and Joseph's daughter doing a jigsaw puzzle together)

Florence (pauses the broadcast and faces her sister and the visitors): Hello Tricia. Hi guys.

Flora: Hello Florence.

Freddy and Violet: Hi.

Narrator: After meeting the rest of the Henry-Jackson family, all eight children tucked into Margherita and pepperoni pizza Joseph ordered from Pizza Hut earlier and drank glasses of sparkling orange drink. Freddy and Violet drank some normal orange squash in beakers as babies, toddlers and preschoolers were forbidden from drinking soft and sparkling drinks.

(In the middle of eating, the children smell something, it is Violet, and she has wet and pooped in her nappy)

Arimyrriah (sniffs): What is that smell?

Narrator: Violet needed a nappy change as she had done a wee and a little poo in it.

Carole (carrying a fresh nappy and a pack of wipes in both her hands): Come on Violet, let us change your wet and dirty nappy. (She carries Violet to the sofa and changes her nappy that has urine and a green sausage-shaped poo in it, wipes her bottom and puts a clean nappy on her private parts)

Narrator: After Carole changed her stepdaughter's wet and dirty nappy, she went to the kitchen and collected Flora's birthday cake that the children who attended New Tree Church were going to share the following day. It had orange buttercream cream icing, and it had five layers – three chocolate layers and two orange velvet layers and it was written 'Happy 9th birthday Princess Flora' albeit not being a girly-girl most of the time. It was in a white box.

(A car pulls up at the Henry-Jacksons' house, it is Rochelle and Mr Carter in their new car)

Joseph (looks out of the sitting room window): Taylor, Flora, Arimyrriah and Arigbeniri, your parents are here to take you home.

(Taylor, Flora, Arimyrriah and Arigbeniri put their coats and shoes back on and go to the front door, Joseph unlocks it, and the quartet go into the Perry-Carters' car)

Joseph: Goodbye guys.

Arigbeniri: Goodbye Uncle Joseph.

(Joseph locks the door)

Narrator: The Nigerian-Indian-British and Caucasian-Australian children proceeded into Mr Carter and Rochelle's new car Mr Carter got in Tower Hamlets on Monday - a white BMW X5 2014 with seven brown seats. Mr Carter came out of the car, opened the boot, and put the shopping and Carole's homemade cake in there and closed it, then he went back into the driver's seat. Arigbeniri sat at the back on the left seat, Taylor sat on the left of the middle row, Flora sat in the middle and Arimyrriah sat on the right of the middle row.

Rochelle and Mr Carter: Did you have an enjoyable time shopping and at the house?

Taylor: We did. We got to choose everything for Carole to purchase at Tesco, and we ate some delicious pizza at the Henry-Jacksons' house.

Narrator: During the journey from Upper Norwood to Shortlands via Crystal Palace, Anerley, Elmer's End, The Chinese Garage, everyone sat in silence because it was late.

Rochelle: I am glad that you had an enjoyable time with the Henry-Jacksons but now all of you, it is time to settle down because it is your bedtime. So, no more devices or food for today.

Taylor, Flora, Arimyrriah and Arigbeniri: We promise not to use any move devices or eat any more food today.

Mr Carter: That's the first thing we'd like to hear. If you eat any more food or use any more devices this night, Taylor, Arimyrriah and Arigbeniri, you will not have any of Flora's birthday cakes or a party pack, let alone be part of Flora's birthday party at school and at church.

Narrator: When the sextet were at the house, everyone got out of the seven-seater car and walked to the back of the house where the front door was, Mr Carter carried the shopping and the cake to the house and Rochelle opened the door with a key, everyone went inside the house.

(The three females and three males go inside the house and Mr Carter goes to the kitchen and unpacks the shopping and puts the cake Carole made in the fridge, he puts the number 9 candle and mermaid cake in a carrier bag, along with the apple and orange juice, Quavers, party sandwiches, sausage rolls, cupcakes, scotch eggs and cocktail sausages. He puts the party bags, Haribos, popcorn, coloured pencils, and hairbands in another carrier bag)

Rochelle (takes off her silver hooded coat): Children, please take off your shoes and coats and change into your pyjamas.

Narrator: The children went into their bedroom and took off their shoes, coats, going out clothes and vests. The boys also took off their underwear as well as their vests and put on their pyjamas. Taylor wore navy blue long sleeved pyjamas with white stars on them, Flora wore long sleeved orange pyjamas with white hearts all over them, Arimyrriah wore a pair of light rose long sleeved pyjamas with shoes all over them and a purple zip-up jumper to keep her warm with hood and Arigbeniri wore long sleeved grey Simpsons pyjamas and a green knitted jumper outside to keep him warm. Then they went into the bathroom and brushed their teeth.

(After changing into their pyjamas and brushing their teeth, the four children go into the sitting room where the four adults are watching Come Dine with Me on Channel 4Od, waiting to read a bedtime story and say a nighttime prayer with them)

Rochelle (carrying a book called 'Peppa goes Camping' in hand): Let's get you four ready for bed by reading a bedtime story and saying a nighttime prayer.

Narrator: Suddenly, when Rochelle was about to read tonight's bedtime story, Taylor noticed a piece of irresistible wedding cake on the plum armchair.

Taylor (politely): Please can I have that slice of Carole and Joseph's wedding cake? I have asked politely.

(Rochelle and Mr Carter look at each other and muse)

Rochelle and Mr Carter: Taylor Donovan Perry, even though you asked politely before you took the slice of wedding cake. Of course, you cannot have it tonight because it's awfully late.

(Taylor hangs his head and takes the slice of wedding cake off the armchair and puts it on its lap)

Arimyrriah (points at Taylor): Miss Rochelle, Taylor is trying to eat the cake, even though he was told no.

Rochelle (in a firm voice): Taylor, if you eat any of that slice of cake, you will have severe consequences. This is your final chance.

Narrator: But Taylor did not listen to his mother, rather than that, he pushed his luck and ate some of the cake.

Flora (shocked): OH NO!

Rochelle (in a firm voice): Oh dear, Flora. (her tone changes) RIGHT! Taylor, how dare you disobey me when I told you not to eat that cake! And just for punishment, this will be the last cake you will have for this week! And I am going to tell them at school and at church not to give you any of the mermaid cake and buttercream cake! Also, you will not be joining into your sister's birthday celebrations at school and at church! Your consequence is that you will not taste any of Flora's birthday cakes tomorrow.

Narrator: When he heard this, Taylor tried to spit out the bit of wedding cake he ate but Mr Carter stopped him because that was a disgusting idea. Then he showed both his mother and stepfather the remaining cake, but they still would not let Taylor join in any of his sister's birthday celebrations, because he chose to ignore his mother.

Rochelle: Now, before my son decided to disobey my husband and I. I am going to read you a bedtime story called 'Peppa goes camping.'

Narrator: Rochelle was reading the children a bedtime story about Peppa Pig going on holiday in a camper van with her little brother George, her Mummy and her Daddy who had a big tummy in her Australian accent. Whilst Taylor was crying all through, rather than taking his consequence.

Rochelle (in a cross voice): TAYLOR DONOVAN PERRY, PLEASE STOP CRYING! YOUR CRIES WERE INTERRUPTING ME WHEN I WAS READING ALL OF YOU A BEDTIME STORY!

(But Taylor doesn't stop crying, he convinces his mother to give him another chance to be obedient)

Taylor (in sobs): Please Mummy, can you give me one last chance to be obedient?

Rochelle (calmed down): I will think about it, but if you don't stop crying instantly, I will not be changing my mind, and you will definitely have to take that punishment. Now Mrs Adhikari is going to say a nighttime prayer for us.

Narrator: Mum said a nighttime prayer for the children, this time it was in peace because Taylor stopped crying instantly after his mother's announcement that she would think about Taylor having one last chance to be obedient. After Mum said the prayer, everyone shared the grace and both Rochelle and she gave their children a kiss.

(Rochelle and Mum give their children kisses on their cheeks before proceeding to their bedroom)

Flora (goes onto the bottom bunk of one bed): I am going to be an entire year older from tomorrow. (she tucks herself in her black duvet with stars)

Taylor (he puts a CD called 'Sunny Day Studios - Christmas Songs' in a black CD player, presses play and climbs onto the top bunk of Taylor and Flora's bunk bed): My mummy said that she would reassess the situation by tomorrow and I might taste both your mermaid and buttercream cake after all. (he tucks himself in his pale blue duvet and bursts into tears again)

Arigbeniri (closes the curtains): We are going to have a party at both school and church tomorrow. (he goes to the bottom bunk of Arimyrhah and Arigbeniri's bunk bed and tucks himself in his blue Wall-E duvet)

Arimyrhah (turns off the light): Taylor, you must take consequences if you are disobedient. Even if your mum is going to reconsider it by tomorrow. (she climbs onto the top bunk of Arimyrhah and Arigbeniri's bunk bed and tucks herself in her pink Groovy Chick duvet)

Narrator: A quarter of an hour after, three quarters of the children were sleeping, Mr Carter came into the bedroom with some rules for them, especially crying Taylor.

(Mr Carter comes into the children's bedroom wearing long sleeved pale blue pyjamas and a royal blue bathrobe)

Mr Carter (comes into the children's bedroom): These are your bedtime rules children, particularly you Taylor, especially because you are turning the waterworks on deliberately so you can get out of your consequence, albeit your mother telling you that she would think about whether to give you one more chance or not. No talking, no gadgets, no singing, no shouting, no getting up (unless you want to go to the toilet of course), no whispering, no crying and most of all, no violence. Taylor did you hear me? No talking, no gadgets, no singing, no shouting, no getting up (unless you want to go to the toilet of course), no whispering, no crying and most of all, no violence. (he exits the bedroom, and Taylor still sobs disturbing his Caucasian-Australian sister and the Nigerian-Indian-British children)

Flora (getting a bit to quite cross): Stop crying Taylor. You are disturbing me and the other children from their sleep. Now stop crying, your mother said that she would think about it. (she goes back to sleep)

Narrator: But Taylor did not stop crying. In fact, he cried his eyes out and Rochelle went into the children's room, not to tell her son to stop crying but to collect what Flora would be wearing to church for her birthday party there.

(Rochelle, now wearing short sleeved light pink pyjamas with black stripes and a hot rose bathrobe over it comes into the children's room, goes into the Perry children's wardrobe, and collects a short-sleeved silver dress, a grey shrug, and silver tights for her daughter Flora)

Taylor (wakes up): Mummy, are you going to stop me from tasting Flora's birthday cakes at school and at church?

Rochelle (in a firm voice): Well Taylor, if you do not go back to sleep now and stop crying your eyes out, it will escalate to your tenth birthday party being cancelled, and we will not celebrate your birthday at all this year. (she leaves with Flora's dress, shrug, and tights)

Narrator: At last, Taylor stopped crying and went back to sleep. Now everybody was sleeping in peace. And if Rochelle thought about whether to give Taylor another chance to be obedient or to take his consequence of not joining into Flora's birthday party at school and church and said 'yes,' he would join into both celebrations after all. If not, he would have to be excluded from Rose Class's party for Flora and her birthday celebration at New Tree Church.
